Mathematical Models in the Manufacturing of Glass C I M E

The problems treated here are very typical of the field of glass manufacturing and cover a large spectrum of complementary subjects: injection molding by various techniques, radiative heat transfer in glass, nonisothermal flows and fibre spinning. The book can certainly be useful not only to applied mathematicians, but also to physicists and engineers, who can find in it an overview of the most advanced models and methods.

Mathematical Modeling of Production Systems

MATHEMATICAL MODELING Performance measures: These are metrics, which quantify the efficiency of system operation and, thus, are central to analysis, continuous improvement, and design methods developed in this book. This chapter describes each of these components and comments on parameter identification and model validation.
